

I am opposed to the FCC weakening Indiana's Telephone Privacy Law by imposing a federal exemption as requested by the CBA. I do not want banks, credit card companies, and similar businesses calling me to sell additional services to me even if I already have an established business relationship with these companies. I am already bombarded enough with flyers tucked in my monthly statements and other advertisements arriving via mail, television and radio. If I want or need additional services provided by these companies, I will contact them. I will never do business with a company that solicits my business through telemarketing.
